

Plans have just been approved for the building of a nuclear power station just outside your hometown.

You and your friends are very much against this and you have decided to meet up and formulate some ideas on how you can raise awareness of the risks of building the power station and ultimately to stop the project completely.

You have three minutes to outline some ideas of how you could achieve this aim.

Some facts that are known to you are and you should take into account are:

- Contractors working on the project are housed in a temporary workers village
- Although most businesses are anti plant, some allow the workers to use their shops and other amenities, in particular the Golden Lion pub is a favourite hangout for the workers and it is where high ranking bosses stay when they visit the site.
- One of the towns taxi firms has a contract with the nuclear company
- Not everyone seems to care about having a nuclear powerplant on their doorstep, this may be through lack of knowledge as there is no single group who are central to stopping the development
- The local council are split on the issue and it was only just passed, there is a widely held belief that Councillor Biggs, who is related to the owner of the land where the station is being built (Dave Smith), was the driving force behind the yes campaign.
- If the company couldn't rent the land the station couldn't be built in this area
- There is only one main road that is useable by the work transport to the site
- Power to the workers village is supplied by its own power plant attached to the village
- You have obtained a list of the names of the for and against local people
- Some workers are from a local company..Johnson Construction Ltd
- The issue is getting nationwide media coverage.
